HOW TO BE DEMOCRATIC

—By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright 1932 By King Features

THE LINDBERGH case is ended, except for punishment, and that will come, President Hoover yesterday issued the following statement: "I have directed the law enforcement agencies and the several secret services of the federal government to make the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby a live and never-to-be-forgotten case, never to be relaxed until these criminals are implacably brought to justice."

The government's secret service agencies are efficient. They make counterfeiting dangerous for criminals. Let us hope that in this case and hereafter they will make kidnapping children as dangerous as counterfeiting money.

OUR CIVILIZATION has always been efficient in punishing crimes against money. Forgers go to prison, counterfeiters, including those of unusual ability from all over the world, find themselves no match for government detectives.

But this country has been slow in suppressing offenses against human beings, murders in public streets, holdups, "putting on the spot" racketeering, taking men "for a ride" and throwing them out murdered, and all the other crimes that have been developed in this prohibition-bootleg age.

It is good news that the national government hereafter will take the stealing of a child as seriously as it has always taken the counterfeiting of a $10 bill.

THAT is going far, in a country supposed to encourage special ability. But the good Wurtemburgers of Stuttgart think it isn't going far enough. The Stuttgart municipal council resolves that nobody in Germany should be allowed to have in any one year an income of more than 2,500 marks, which is $280.

Some senator or representative of new York city should amend the tax bill to include that. We would not allow Wurtemberg to outdo us in plain democracy.

ALFONSO, former king of Spain, landing from a steamship at Marseilles yesterday, was attacked and brutally beaten by a stranger who turned out to be a Spaniard. Ignorance and brutality are back of such an attack.

Alfonso of Spain, king no longer, has done the best that he could, as he has to centuries of mistakes and bad government.

While he was in office he showed admirable fearlessness, in the face of death and more than one attack upon his life. And he has accepted, in good spirits, the decision of his people.

Beating a beaten man is not admirable.

WORD comes of the serious illness of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, who has suffered an attack of paralysis. Many women, who don't know it, have reason to hope for Mrs. Belmont's prompt recovery and long life.

Nation's Police Are Concentrating On Mystery of Ransom

Was It Collected by Actual Murderers or By Racketeers?

MORRIS ROSNER IS QUESTIONED

Tiny Body of Victim Is Cremated; Mother Ordered to Bed

BULLETIN

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14.—The metal scoop of a broken shovel was found in the undergrowth today close to the spot where the body of the Lindbergh baby was discovered Thursday. Police said there were indications it had been recently used.

(By Associated Press)
HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14.—The detective brains of a nation concentrated today on a prime dilemma in the Lindbergh murder mystery. Was the $50,000 ransom collected by the actual murderers in a ghoul-like swindle plot, or

Was it collected by racketeers seeking to cash in, like parasites of crime, on an act committed by someone else?

It was a problem of paramount importance to a final solution of the case, and there was much to be said on either side.

Centers on Clothes, Note

It centered about a baby's sleeping suit, two safety pins and an illiterate note signed by a strange symbol.

Yesterday the tide of opinion seemed to be swinging to the theory that the murderers got the money, but last night and today doubts crept in again.

Authorities were trying to determine whether the cablistic ransom note left in the nursery when Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was stolen, could have got into the hands, soon after the kidnapping of any person save Col. Lindbergh and those working with him.

Morris Rosner, mysterious "undercover man" for Col. Lindbergh in his attempts to negotiate with the kidnappers, came to Hopewell for questioning. Rosner was said to have received the ransom note, which he took to New York. From

WHITE TO CALL THIRD SESSION

Ohio Assembly to Consider Proposed Salary Adjustment

COLUMBUS, O., May 14.—Governor George White will call a third extraordinary session of the Ohio general assembly before the November elections to consider the matter of salary adjustments, he announced today.

The chief executive will appoint a committee to be headed by State Finance Director Howard L. Bevis of Cincinnati to study the salary scales and recommend a systematic adjustment of the salaries of public officials and employees throughout the state.

Governor White did not assign a date for the third session but said it will be called before the November elections so that salary adjustments, if approved by the general assembly, will effect candidates elected in November.

A clamor for consideration of salary adjustments at the first special session March 29 when unemployment relief legislation was adopted, was still then by an indication from the governor that he would consider salaries at a later date.

The second extraordinary session of the assembly will convene Monday to consider the governor's recommendation for amendments to the Ohio banking laws to permit state banks to borrow from the reconstruction finance corporation created by congress.

Grange Lecturer At Pomona Meeting

Joseph N. Fichter, lecturer of Ohio State grange, will speak to members of Columbiana County Pomona grange, Saturday, May 21, at Mile Branch grange hall, in the Sebring district.

Mrs. Mark Borton, pomona lecturer, has arranged additional numbers for the afternoon program.

Fichter will preside at a conference for lecturers of subordinate granges in the county during the morning session of pomona.

The fifth degree will be exemplified in full form at the evening session.

the note, it was asserted tracing were made for the use of Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bitz, also chosen by the Lindberghs to deal with the underworld.

The note, after ordering Lindbergh to have $50,000 ready and declaring "the child is in gut care," indicated future letters could be identified by a strange symbol consisting of overlapping circles drawn in blue ink, with a red eclipse in the overlapping part. Three small holes completed the design.

Taken To New York

The note was taken to New York by Rosner almost a month before Dr. John F. Condon (Jafse) paid $50,000 in a Bronx cemetery to a man who showed evidence that he was connected with the kidnapers. There was no suggestion, however, that Rosner acted in anything but good faith, and a friend of his said he would cooperate with the authorities fully.

When Dr. Condon advertised that he would act as intermediary,

COUNTY TRACK RIVALS BATTLE IN 29TH MEET

Ancient Athletic Competition Renewed at Reilly Stadium

Delayed more than an hour by rain, preliminary trials in the twenty-ninth annual track and field meet of the Columbiana County Interscholastic Athletic association, involving seven schools and approximately 150 athletes, got under way at Reilly stadium at 11:30 a. m. today.

Salem High's athletes were heavy favorites to regain the championship held by East Palestine High. Wet and slow condition of the track made establishment of new marks in running events improbable while jumpers and weight-tossers will also compete under handicaps.

The delay in preliminaries will throw the starting of finals back to about 3 o'clock.

Salem was expected to score points in the majority of events, especially the shot put, mile, half-mile, pole vault, broad jump and high jump. With normal conditions prevailing Quaker stars had previously been conceded good chances to set new marks in at least two events, Harold Horstman in the mile and Wayne Russell in the shot put.

F. P. Mullins Referee
Competing against Salem and East Palestine are thinclads from Lettonia, Lisbon, Columbiana, East Liverpool and Wellsville. F. P. Mullins is referee. George W. Thompson of Akron is starter and David Williams of Girard is clerk of course.

Jurors Are Called For Probate Court

LISBON, May 14.—Sixteen jurors have been summoned to report in probate court next Wednesday morning when the case of the State of Ohio on relation of Mary Kosko against John Kosko is called for trial before Judge Lodge Riddle. They are:

Harold Bettridge, Lillian Boring, Emil Bernhard, Charles Craig, East Palestine—P. O. Rukenbrod, Mike Hotchkiss, Catherine Smith, Salineville—Blanche Hanley, William Lange, Sr.

Scattering—Richard McSweeney, Wellsville; B. F. Whitacre, Lettonia; Margaret Bricker, Lisbon; F. A. Rinehart, R. F. D. No. 3, Salem; J. W. Fredey, Homeworth; C. W. Helm, East Rochester.

I. O. O. F. To Hear Elyria Speaker

E. L. Bailey of Elyria will give the address at the annual memorial service for Odd Fellows of the 27th district, comprised of towns in this section, Sunday afternoon, June 5, at Columbiana cemetery.

D. J. Foltz, Eugene Snipes and Leroy Porter, members of the Salem lodge, are on the general committee from the district, which is arranging the service. Ray Smoke of Columbiana is president of the general committee.

Rev. C. N. Church Is Class Speaker

LISBON, May 14.—Rev. C. N. Church of the Methodist Episcopal church will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Lisbon High school in the auditorium of the David Anderson High school Sunday afternoon, May 22.

CAPTAIN FRIED SAVES LIFE OF OCEAN AVIATOR

Lou Reichers Picked Up 47 Miles Off Coast of Ireland

RECORD ATTEMPT ENDS IN FAILURE

Flier Suffering from Broken Nose, Other Injuries; Plane Damaged

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
Commander of the Liner President Roosevelt

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press)

S. S. PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, May 14.—Lou Reichers, Newark, N. J. flier, was aboard my ship today, bound for New York, after a thrilling rescue from a stormy sea last night which ended his attempt to set a new record for a flight from Newark to Paris.

47 Miles From Shore

Reichers, who took off from the Newark airport at 11:02 Thursday night, was picked up out of the sea 47 miles off Fastnet, a rocky islet near the southernmost tip of Ireland, shortly after 9:30 p. m., Greenwich Mean time (4 p. m., in Salem.)

At 9 p. m., we sighted his plane as it fluttered down to a landing. The weather was hazy and the visibility poor. A strong south wind was whipping up a heavy sea.

I maneuvered the President Roosevelt alongside the crippled plane near enough to launch a life boat. Chief Officer Manning went over with life boat No. 10 and worked it up beside the plane, finally succeeding, in spite of the adverse condition, in helping Reichers out of the crushed fuselage into the boat.

Reichers was suffering from a broken nose and several minor injuries incurred in the landing amid the high waves. He had several cuts on his body.

Plane Badly Damaged

He was brought to the ship by the boat's crew and placed in the care of Ship's Surgeon Mulligan.

The fuselage of the plane was damaged and one wing cracked up. We were able to salvage neither lifeboat nor the plane.

Reichers was forced down, he said, by the damage to the plane and by lack of gasoline.

The President Roosevelt is due in New York next Friday.

Dirigible Akron At Sunnyvale Base

(By Associated Press)
SUNNYVALE, CALIF., May 14.—The navy's new lighter-than-air craft base here had its first customer today, the dirigible Akron swinging from a portable mooring mast.

Riveters beat a tattoo on the skeleton of the new airship hangar and to replenish a fuel supply on a flight from Lakehurst, N. J.

Circumstances were lack of wind, lack of ballast, and a "super heated" condition of her lifting helium which navy men blamed on static electricity.

Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, master of the Akron, said it would remain here at least for the week-end.

While here the craft will be refueled and its helium supply replenished. In the buffeting of storms that lashed her during her flight through southwest Texas, enroute here and in attempting to alight at Camp Kearney, San Diego, she lost nearly one-third of her gas. This loss delayed her mooring yesterday.

Stunts and Songs On Grange Program

Stunts and songs composed the program at a meeting of Salem grange Friday evening at the hall Depot rd. The stunts were in charge of Price Cope.

Mrs. Price Cope gave a paper on "Mary and Martha Washington," the mother and wife of George Washington.

This grange will celebrate Memorial day at its meeting in two weeks. C. A. White of Lisbon will be the chief speaker and members of neighboring granges will have part on the program.

Health Workers Meet In Mansfield

Dr. T. T. Church, city health commissioner, and Miss Elizabeth Steer, city health nurse, attended the annual Northeastern Ohio health conference at Mansfield Friday.

Health commissioners, nurses and other public health workers attended the event.

WHERE BABY'S BODY WAS FOUND, DISCOVERERS

These are new photos of William Allen, negro, who while driving a truck along the lonely Mt. Rose road, near Hopewell, N. J., with Orville Wilson, made the discovery of the body of the Lindbergh baby. In the center Allen, right, is shown with Wilson, pointing to the spot where the body was found. Inset, left, is a close-up of Allen, and inset, right, a close-up of Wilson.

MAYOR KLINE CONVICTED IN BUTLER COURT

Pittsburgh Executive, Aid Held On Charge of Malfeasance

(By Associated Press)
BUTLER, Pa., May 14.—Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, and Bertram L. Succop, former Pittsburgh city supplies director, were convicted of malfeasance in office today.

The mayor was convicted on one count of the joint indictment. Succop, a colonel in the 11th Infantry, U. S. army, during the World war, was convicted on several counts.

The officials were indicted after an investigation of city buying methods. The state charged that contracts for city supplies were let to others than the low bidders and some purchases were made without bids being asked.

Mayor Kline discharged Succop during the grand jury investigation in Pittsburgh. They were brought to trial in Butler county after the state supreme court granted them a change of venue.

The mayor's defense principally was that his many duties required that he trust the matter of city purchases to subordinates and that there was no "willful" or "wrongful" motive in the manner of the purchases.

Mayor Kline long has been known for his receptions to visiting dignitaries and noted personages. On trips abroad, he has been received by heads of European governments and was knighted by Premier Mussolini of Italy. In his testimony, the mayor noted the fact of his knighthood.

Succop called "Goat" The count on which the mayor was convicted concerned the advancement of $5,000 to a dealer in second hand motor trucks which the city purchased.

Succop was indicted on 29 counts. His counsel told the jury that the former army officer was "the goat of Pittsburgh."

Deaths Outnumber Births In Report

Dr. T. T. Church submitted his monthly health report to members of the city board of health Friday night, listing 25 deaths and 15 births. It was the first time this year that deaths outnumbered births.

Twelve of the fatalities occurred in the Fourth ward, seven in the First, four in the Second and two in the Third. Births occurred in wards as follows: Fourth, seven, Second, four, and First and Third, each two.

A total of 42 communicable diseases, 15 of them chickenpox and 11 measles, were listed here during April. Other diseases included bacterial pneumonia, influenza and measles.

Issues Appeal For Memorial Day Fund

Charles Bonsall, in charge of the collection of funds with which expenses of the Memorial day observance by patriotic orders will be paid, today issued an appeal for cooperation of organizations and individuals.

Recognizing, he announced, that economic conditions probably will not permit contributions as large as in former years, Bonsall urged, however, that individuals, as well as business establishments and other organizations give to the fund whatever amount is possible, regardless of the size of the offering.

Official Counts Needed In 3 Races

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, May 14.—Official counts probably will be necessary to determine the winners of two of Ohio's district congressional nominations and one of the Republican contests for congress-at-large in Tuesday's primary.

In the latter race, complete returns compiled by the Associated Press gave Lieut. Col. T. J. Herbert of Cleveland a plurality of only 59 votes over L. T. Palmer of Middletown. The secretary of state's unofficial figures set the plurality at 377 votes.

The complete unofficial count in the 13th district Republican congressional race showed Walter E. Kruger of Perrysburg leading his nearest rival, Earl C. Krueger, of Sandusky, by only 170 votes. The Perrysburg candidate is a dry, the Sandusky a Liberal.

In the 15th district Democratic congressional vote, the margin was 247 in favor of State Rep. Robert Secrest of Senecaaville over former Probate Judge Clarence Graham, of Zanesville.

MRS. HOOVER IS WOOSTER GUEST

President's Wife to Get Honorary Degree At College Rites

(By Associated Press)
WOOSTER, O., May 14.—With Mrs. Herbert Hoover, granddaughter of one of its founders, as guest of honor, this city today celebrated its 125th anniversary.

Part of the program was the presentation to the president's wife, of an honorary degree, Doctor of Letters of Humanity, from Wooster college. She also was to review a pageant depicting Wooster's history from the time her grandfather, William Henry, helped lay out the first lots in 1807.

Will Place Wreath
Mrs. Hoover planned to lay a wreath at the Soldiers' monument, to honor her Wooster ancestor.

Henry was aided by two other men, John Bever and Joseph Larwill, in plotting the original townsite, and they, too, were honored in the day's ceremonies.

A house Henry donated to the Methodist church as a parsonage in 1852 still stands, and one of the streets is named after Henry.

After breakfast at the home of Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of Wooster college, Mrs. Hoover's program called for a trip to Severance stadium to witness the 28th annual color day pageant of Wooster college, and the crowning of Miss Elma Sage, of Marion, O., as Queen of the May. The college pageant was in observance of the 100th anniversary of Goethe's birthday.

Given Honorary Degree
Presentation of the L. H. D. degree by Dr. Wishart followed. It was the seventh time an honorary degree has been tendered Mrs. Hoover.

The afternoon was given over to the historical pageant, showing the progress of Wooster from the time it was laid out and including an Indian massacre.

Mrs. Hoover never lived in Wooster, her family having moved on westward to Iowa, but she has been here on occasions obtaining data on her family history.

Fire Damages Home

Fire at 10:05 a. m. today caused slight damage to the home of L. B. Carson, North Ellsworth ave.

The blaze was extinguished by firemen before much loss resulted, Fire Chief V. L. Malloy reported.

BROOKS PRIZE DONOR ATTENDS SCHOOL EVENTS

Attorney Guest As High School Students Meet In Competition

Att'y Charles T. Brooks of Salem attended literary contests at Salem High auditorium Friday afternoon, hearing orations, short stories, poems and essays written by high school students competing for cash awards in the competition made possible through his annual contribution of $100.

Donor Gives Talk

Att'y Brooks, presented by Miss Eleanor Workman, English and Journalism instructor, gave a short talk during the intermission in the literary program. Miss Workman presided.

The Brooks contests have been held for more than five years, cash prizes of $15, $50 and $250 being offered to winning students in each of the four divisions. An extra award of $1 is offered to the pupil whose composition is adjudged the best of the entire 20 submitted.

Judges at the contests were Miss Gertrude Pfouts, dean of girls at Alliance High school; John Stephenson of East Liverpool and Miss Ruth Young of Columbiana High. Winners will be announced next week. Principal Wilbur J. Springer announced today.

Contenders and Topics
Students competing in the contests and subjects of their compositions follow:

Short stories — Charles Gibson, "The Discovery of Steiner"; Betty Ulicny, "A Mere Peasant"; Kathryn Knepper, "The Curse"; Jean Olinhausen, "Take Opportunity When It Comes"; Viola Bodo, "God's Children."

Orations — Alfred Paxson, "The Ideals of a Nation"; Jack Ballantine, "Washington's Contributions to Education"; Robert Snyder, "The Negro Problem"; John Paul Olloman, "In Defense of the American Indian."

Essays — Mary Burke, "Pictures in the Fireplace"; LaVerda Capel, "On Puppy Love"; Mary Louise Scullion, "The Value of Humor"; Mary Louise Miller, "The Chinese Secret"; Albert Allen, "God's Cathedral."

Poems — Thelma Affolter, "Life's Road"; Sara Spiker, "My Prayer"; Ted Visker, "My Violin"; James West, "Men of the Forests"; Anne Wagner, "Hay Fever."

A short "pep" rally, led by Clarence Walker, was held to arouse interest of students in the county track meet scheduled today.

Graduation Held By Goshen Grange

"Graduation exercises" featured a meeting of Goshen grange Friday evening at the hall, northwest of Salem, when a class of juvenile grangers were received into the subordinate grange.

Mrs. C. E. Crouse of North Lima, past county deputy of juvenile granges, gave the "class" address. A short talk was given by Mrs. Fay Heintzelman of Boardman, present deputy. There were 13 in the class and 11 of them were present for the "exercises."

Four applications for membership were accepted and one candidate was obligated in the first and second degrees.

The grange voted to go on record as opposing tariff on lumber and gasoline and tax on automobiles and trucks.

MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN

The hope that the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby had exhausted their brutality by stealing the child and intended to return it is dashed to abyssal depths by the last development in one of the world's most heinous crimes.

The helpless babe's dead body has been found. Suspense is over. But how much better was suspense, however agonizing, than the starkly cruel truth that there are human beings so grossly inhuman that they dare to reach their grasping fingers into the warmth of a cradle to commit murder on an innocent infant.

The nation stands helpless in bitter grief before such crushing evidence of depravity among its people. Its blind rage is pathetic. It may succumb in placing the wretch or wretches who committed the crime in the hands of justice, but a life for a life cannot be compensation for the irredeemable loss of the bereaved parents.

They are symbols of the best that America has produced. They are victims of the worst it has produced. To them has been given the privilege of enjoying life more than ordinary, but that privilege has been turned into a hollow mockery by dangers from the jackals of humanity. In a few more days it would have been five years since Colonel Lindbergh, alone and courageous, blazed a trail across the Atlantic ocean. He has been rewarded—with everything but security.

America can but offer its poor sympathy. It can but bow its head and listen to the thundered charge of its own conscience that it is a poor civilization that makes of money a god so strong that prattling infants are butchered on its altar. The Lindbergh baby was but one; its abductors may never violate humanity's tenets again. But there is a suspicion, almost too awful to be voiced, that what has been done this time may be done many times. There are many fiends capable of doing as bad and worse.

What to do! The echo comes back, unanswered like the unheeded cries of the murdered child—What to do!

THE POPULAR CHOICE

There is a story that Theodore Roosevelt, when well-meaning friends suggested that his political course might lead to the presidency of the United States, gave himself over to one of his famous interludes of violent behavior, which ended in a warning never to mention the subject in his presence again. He was afraid of and for himself if the necessary jobs of the moment were to become instruments to increase his popularity with the people. He wanted to work, not to ingratiate himself.

David S. Ingalls, the choice of Ohio Republicans for governor, must have felt the same way last week when his impressive victory in the primary inspired friends to speculate on his probable availability for the nation's highest office at some future time. True, he has within himself qualities which inspire such speculation, but it is a question whether or not those who speak in such a vein are doing him a service.

His next task is to win the election. He will be running against a strong man. Victory over Governor White would be a certificate of popular approval that any public man would cherish. Assuming victory, he then would face a far greater task—an administration that would convince Ohio of his worth. Mr. Ingalls has chosen to go into big-time politics at a moment when the people are demanding vigorous action, clear thinking and irreproachable motives from politicians. Win or lose next fall, he has an extraordinarily fine opportunity to make of himself an outstanding figure in public service.

It will be an adventure for him and for thousands who believe that the level of politics can and must be raised. Failure would be fatal, not only to himself, but to those citizens of both political parties who believe in him.

What Others Say

ABOLISHING SUBMARINES
In advocating before the Geneva disarmament conference the total abolishment of submarines Senator Swanson of Virginia adds an empty gesture to the many futile suggestions that have gone before.

When nations are at war they have the single object in view of winning as quickly and decisively as possible. To this end they call on their inventive ability to create weapons more powerful and more devastating than those of their opponents.

When events look toward war, the heart of any people swells with national pride and the conceit of blood and tradition. The emergency of self-preservation transforms agreements and treaties into scraps of paper. Regardless of rules and peacetime agreements, nations at war will exert their utmost to crush the enemy. Efforts at limiting the weapons of warfare will go on but they will always be empty words, futile and idealistic gestures. There is no idealism in war—Ohio State Journal.

Editorial Quips

Leap year nearly half over, yet millions of bachelors still hold "wouldn't-wedding" celebrations—Chicago Daily News.

After all it simmers down to a case of profits versus taxes, and what business news is a bigger turnover and a smaller handover—Boston Herald.

Jimmy Walker wants to run again to "vindicate himself." That's rather peculiar. It was our impression Jimmy hasn't done anything.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The house of representatives is reminiscent of a small boy who, asked to do a dozen household chores, finally manages to get his roller skates oiled.—New York Sun.

The Stars Say—

Sunday, May 15

Sunday's horoscope shows excellent conditions for advancement and preferment with possible honors and favors from superiors, with much that is propitious for church and charity and others in important positions. However, matters should not be jeopardized by impulsive or irritable conduct or by unwise writings or letters.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of advancement and preferment and the co-operation of employers and those in places of power and prestige. It is a time for forging ahead to fulfilled ambitions but avoiding strife, dispute and carelessness in signing documents or writings. There may be slight disappointment. A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious and efficient, but may incline to rash and impulsive conduct unless disciplined in infancy. It should succeed best in employment.

For Monday, May 16

Monday's astrological forecast is an auspicious one for dealing with elders or old institutions. The day will be notable for substantial achievement following the breaking away of stubborn obstacles, congestions or opposition. In social, domestic or affectional relations there may be extravagance, anxieties or friction.

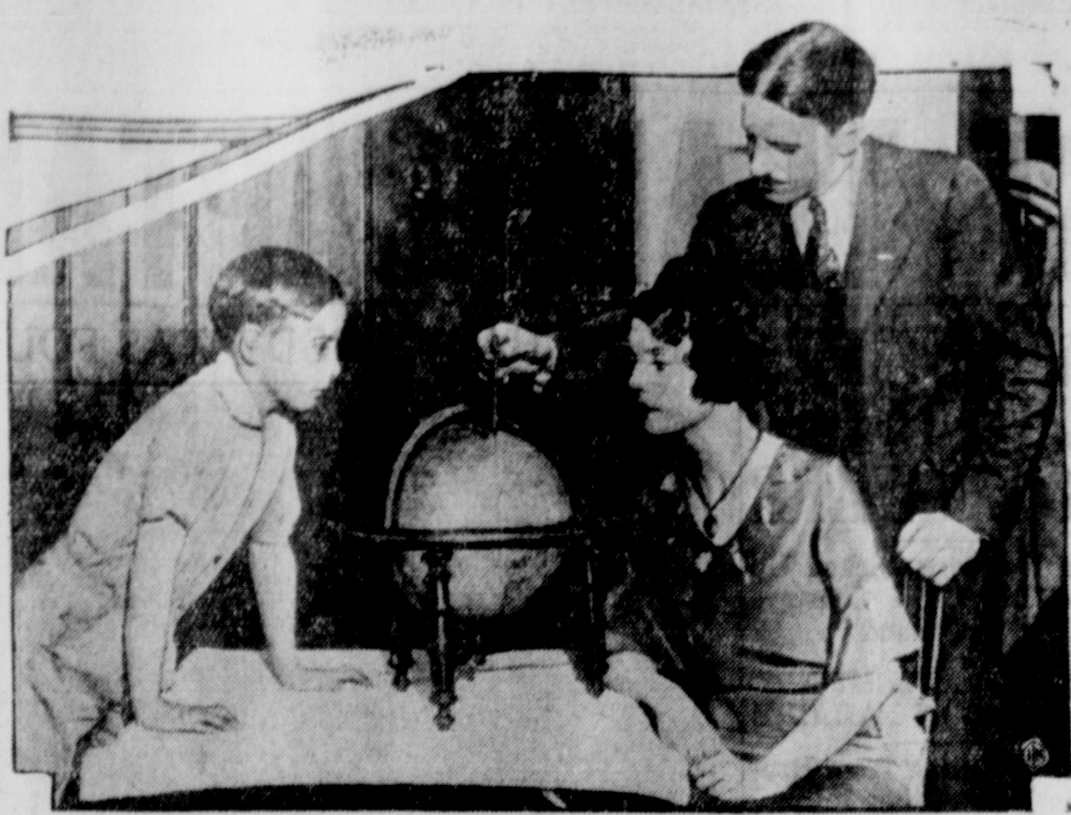

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which substantial progress will follow the breaking up of stagnant conditions or persistent opposition. Favors or assistance from elders or old institutions may be sought with confidence. Private relations may give concern or disappointment. A child born on this day should be steady, studious and responsible, winning the confidence and assistance of its elders.

Means Released on Bond

Released from jail at Washington, D. C., under a $50,000 bond, Gaston B. Means, former investigator for the U. S. Department of Justice who was recently indicted on a charge of obtaining $104,000 from Mrs. Evelyn McLean under the pretense that he could recover the Lindbergh baby, is shown being interviewed by a newspaperman. Means has now been linked with some more money juggling, complaints having been made that he received, directly or indirectly, $200,000 from Mrs. Finley Shephard, alleged to investigate Soviet activities in the United States.

As Reichers Mapped Route of Trip That Failed

Lou Reichers, American air race, who yesterday was picked out of the ocean 47 miles off the coast of Ireland after his three-stop hop to Paris had failed, is shown here as he held a family consultation with his wife and son over the proposed route of his flight.

NEW YORK, May 14. — Purely personal piffle: Bowling Green is the prettiest of all New York's sectional names. I frequently say "He never had no, etc." I somehow feel an old rooster talking to young platinum blondes. A Paris bootmaker is a striking image of my dad. I'm in love with Barbara Stanwyck.

I can spot an anonymous letter before opening it. A brick house, where I once roomed in Cincinnati, is the locale of most of my dreams. Most amusing of the tabloid headlines: "Siren Snares Soap Shik." Garbo makes the most realistic love.

A book of mine is in the 14th printing. Key to puzzle: It's given away with magazine subscriptions. I love extremes. Of all suburbs, prefer Greenwich, Conn., and like to listen to talk in all night lunch-rooms around 3 a. m., although disgustingly afraid of drunks. Laurel and Hardy made me howl in a recent slap-stick.

About 50 people generally ring the 'E's' in this type of column to mail me. The wildest party I ever attended was in the staid city of Boston. The first person of importance I ever interviewed in New York was Chauncey Depew. I have most of the symptoms of the patent medicine circulares.

The Capitol and Embassy newsreels are my favorite movies. The Pearl Bryan murder interested me more than any other. I have turned down offers totaling more than $25,000 to endorse advertised products. Always a sucker! I never see a picket fence without a lurch to run a stick along it.

Nothing embarrasses me so much as to start to speak to someone and have them look away. And its all ways happening. That's why I'm so distant. I work by artificial light on sunny days. And sleep curled in a tight knot, with my mouth open. I once saw a one-legged fellow murdered by a one-armed man.

I can never write a line between 5 and 7 in the evening. Just the moody type and I like the taste of mullage on postage stamps. A favorite scent is of burning leaves and I invariably have two helpings of bean soup. Costume plays bore me. My Boston naps sitting up.

The only public speech ever made was at a welcome dinner to Jack Dempsey at the Breakfast Club in Los Angeles. Any play that makes others cry makes my throat ache. But I can't squeeze out a tear anymore. Circus people fascinate me.

Every now and then I have a yen for a Chinese dinner but it never satisfies. I like to prow around chain stores and magazine stands. Despite my beefing, I lost little in the panic. I'm Scotch that way.

Saturday afternoons in New York depress me. Unlike most people, I like Monday mornings. I have never sent but two ladies flowers and seldom write slightly of an individual that I have not regretted. In the horse shoe court of the London Savoy one day an official looking man, tapped me on the shoulder and said: "We want to see you at the Yard." It was a joke but I became actively nauseated. No sound is so stifled as the echoing yell of newsboys in skyscraper canyons.

I flew across the English channel last day a pilot in another plane went suddenly loco and killed two passengers. If no one is around when I hear particularly pleasant news I skip about the house. The only enemy I've never forgiven is one who fed my beautiful setter dog ground glass. And then wrote a glowing note. I like the savvy of Jack Benny and think Dave Apollon has the best all-around act in vaudeville.

Everybody turning into the Lambs immediately looks like an actor. After more than 20 years of writing I have to have a repair man affix new typewriter ribbons. I laughed at Frank Tinney more than any comedian of my time. And in my weeping days, wept more with Pauline Lord. I have a standing offer to become the head of a large advertising agency. My wife never criticizes anything I write unless it is something she regards as unintentionally suggesting vulgarity.

The most beautiful letters I ever receive come from New Orleans. One of my closest friends, Jay P. Price, thinks everything I write is terrible. Maybe because we were brought up together has something to do with it. Or maybe—horrible thought—the soundso is right. There have been many complaints. To say nothing of an occasional threat.

X-Ray Essential To Find Ulcer

Gastric ulcer has been described as a circumscribed loss of substance in the wall of the stomach. In simple language this means that a definitely outlined sore formed in the internal wall of the stomach.

Neither sex is immune, and the disease may occur at any age, although most cases are between the ages of 25 and 45 years.

The immediate causes of this condition are all those factors that impair the general health. Among these are anemia, tuberculosis, alcoholism and errors in diet, as well as the formation of excess acid in the gastric juice. Taking extremely hot food into the stomach is cited as a cause. This theory is borne out by the fact that cooks and chefs frequently suffer from ulcers of the stomach.

The symptoms are often vague. It is entirely probable that many persons have had the disease and completely recovered without treatment.

A person afflicted with this disease usually has indigestion with gas, heart-burn, nausea, and pain radiating to the left side of the back. The pain may be severe or only slight, and usually appears from a quarter of an hour up to two or three hours after meals. The old idea that this discomfort was caused by food irritating the ulcer has now been discarded in favor of the belief that a spasm of the stomach walls is responsible for the distress.

Diagnosis of gastric ulcer can be definitely made only by the X-ray. All is guess work without such an examination.

Effort should be made to discover the cause of the disease. The diet should consist mainly of milk, milk soups, albumen water and well cooked cereals. Small amounts of food should be taken at frequent intervals. All acid forming foods, such as sugar vinegar, mustard and condiments, should be eliminated from the diet. The temperature of the food should be neither too hot nor too cold. Infected teeth and tonsils must be given attention.

Of course, all cases of suspected gastric ulcer should be under the observation and care of a physician. Individual advice is needed as regards diet, rest and medical treatment.

It is a great mistake to depend on one's own powers of diagnosis. Many cases of undernourishment can be traced to unnecessary dieting following a home-made suspicion that the stomach was ulcerated. Find out for certain.

Answers to Health Queries

Clarence W. Q. — What causes cracks in the tongue? I am troubled with constipation and excess saliva.

A. — Your trouble may be due to hyperacidity. Correct your diet and avoid poor elimination. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

M. P. R. Q. — I have been troubled with a pain in my hip joint. Could this be rheumatism?

A. — Possibly some infection in the system is usually responsible.

L. G. Q. — On arising in the morning after an all night sound sleep I am so weak I can hardly walk across the floor. Please give me a reason for this.

A. — This condition may be due to auto-intoxication. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

CANON CITY.—When Ernest Simon, 80, died at a local hospital, he was happy. He knew that "Brownie" his Chesapeake Bay dog, constant companion in life for 12 years, had been chloroformed, and would be buried near him. The aged man's last request was for friends to see that Brownie was not left alone in the world, but would go with him.

Beauties of Nature Made to Suffer

Thoughtlessness of Wild-Flower Collectors Has Proven Harmful

—BY WILLIAM C. BAKER—

He who is interested in one form of outdoor life is apt to be interested in many, and he who would defend one form of wild life would defend all.

People Gather Flowers

At this time of year it is no unusual sight to see people with armloads of wild flowers or with automobiles bedecked with branches of dog-wood and service-berry. This sight is distressing to anyone who loves the out-of-doors and who makes an attempt to guide the youngsters of a city along correct paths in their native love of the out-of-doors.

When children see grown folks with armloads of trilliums, they believe that it is perfectly legitimate to do likewise. Even persons who may appear intelligent often become thoughtless enough to guide children in the paths of destruction.

When the flowers of many wild plants are picked, the plant is prevented from reproducing, for the flowers are the reproductive organs of the plants. When you destroy the power of reproduction, you destroy the plant.

Many Destroy Nature

To see the destruction done by people who "love nature enough to destroy her," it is necessary only to go into a comparatively wild place and compare the flowers one sees there with those one sees in the woods anywhere about the borders of the city. From hillside gorgeous with dogwood and trilliums, service berry and jack-in-the-pulpit, golden ragwort and spice bush, to a wood barren of any of the most showy flowers and trees, and containing only the modest spring beauties and a few violets, is a distinct shock.

We should have the woods about the city just as full of these larger flowers had not several generations succeeded in extirpating them from our midst. The person who picks bouquets of wild flowers is not only thoughtless, but utterly selfish. He prevents all who follow after him, even for generations, from enjoying that which he has enjoyed the sight of wild flowers in their pristine glory. Even violets, which reproduce by reaching out under the ground, as well as by flowering, can become, through the years, uncommon in much-frequented places.

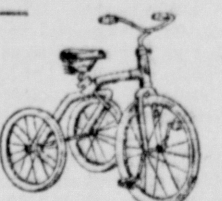

"Help Save Flowers"

Let's help save the wild flowers by picking flowers from our gardens instead of wild flowers from some one else's woods. It would be far better to take a whole plant from the woods and naturalize it in a wild flower garden, than to pick a bouquet.

To pick a single specimen of each of twenty flowers, for identification, is entirely different in purpose from picking a bouquet, and for more useful to the broadening of one's own knowledge. Two often wild flowers are completely wilted by the time we get them home, but if we carry our specimens for identification in a coffee can or a vase, we arrive home with them just as fresh as when we picked them.

In all conservation efforts, the price of saving wild life is eternal vigilance. There are constantly coming up new things to fight against. We have almost forgotten Teapot Dome and the oil steals of a few years ago. We thought the fight for the preservation of our forests against the lumbermen was over when Roosevelt and Wilson set aside vast areas as national forests, but we are finding that grazing interests and lumber interests are using the lumber and forests as never before, and that vast areas of our national parks, which are thought inviolate, are being transferred to the national forests, where their lumber is instantly converted into cash, and only narrow strips of virgin timber allowed to stand along the highways, to give the impression of vast areas of park.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"

THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS
At 11:30 on New Year's Eve, Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt arrives at the exclusive Mayfair Club in response to a mysterious summons from District Attorney Merle Dougherty. The latter informs Colt he believes Lola Carewe, known as "The Night-Club Lady," widow of Gaylord Clifford, the cotton millionaire is the "higher-up" responsible for numerous jewel robberies perpetrated recently which baffle the police. Though her husband died practically penniless, Lola lives in luxury. She arrives at the Mayfair accompanied by Vincent Rowland, an attorney. At Lola's urgent request, Colt joins her party. She voices the fear that she will not leave Mayfair alive, adding that her dog and parrot were mysteriously killed. And, tonight, she received a note threatening death before three a. m. Accompanied by detectives and one woman operative, Colt goes with Lola to her apartment.

CHAPTER FIVE
In silence we rode up the elevator shaft to the pent-house which Lola Carewe called her home—an aerie perched high in the New York skyline like the nest of some predatory bird. On the twenty-second floor, our way led down a long, heavily carpeted corridor, mysterious in its dim light, to the foot of an iron stairs leading up to the penthouse door. Still without talk, we began the ascent of those steps. Four times the iron staircase turned in its climb to Lola's dwelling place. At each landing, I noticed that Thatcher Colt held back the party while he turned first. Dougherty, puffing and blowing, kept pace bravely with him; Lola followed, with Vincent Rowland, Harris, and myself bringing up the rear.

At the top of the stairs, we found the detail from Headquarters. In charge of the party was Lieutenant Fallon, of Colt's personal staff, with Detectives Langley and Schwartz and a group of lesser known men, with one of our girl operatives, Dorothy Lox, an ample housewife brunette, later famous for her help to Colt in the Chinatown Seven Murders case.

As Fallon saluted, he reported: "I got the building plans from the 'one downstairs'—they think it's a burglar scare. We can guard every window and door of the penthouse, except the ones that open on a sheer drop to the street, with plenty of men for the terrace and roof—and you can use Miss Lox inside."

"Let me see the lay-out!" The chief studied the paper—a printed diagram showing the floor plans of the pent-house.

"Very good," he said, after a moment. "Yet's go!"

"Thanks, Chung!" The mistress of the pent-house seemed to accept her butler's round salute as merely a casual greeting. I wondered if he pattered around these rooms all day long making heroic speeches like that. Or whether he was just another player in a show that Lola Carewe was staging—for what possible purpose?

We were in a small reception hall and the front door of the apartment had clanged shut, closing us in. The air was stiflingly warm. Later we were to find the whole apartment overheated. Chung took our wraps and waddled to a closet. We were about to follow our hostess down the broad corridor, when the Commissioner said:

"Miss Carewe, you are not to be in any room alone at any time. When I cannot be with you, Miss Lox here must attend you."

With a martyr's smile, Lola agreed.

"Anything else?" she inquired. "I shall wish to make a tour of your apartment, terrace, and roof. I want to see every room. Then I should like to meet all the members of your household."

Before Lola could reply, a young woman in maid's costume hastened down the corridor.

"Mother awake, Eunice?" asked Lola quickly.

"She retired to her room hours ago. The door is closed."

"And Christine?"

"Still out on her New Year party, madame."

From the mantel the Commissioner lifted a crumpled white object.

Waving aside the key Lola offered him, Colt rang the apartment bell. Fallon saluted and nodded toward the other detectives, who scattered toward the places assigned to them. All approaches to the pent-house were now under heavy police guard.

The door was opened by a short and rather stout Chinaman, with a completely bald head, and a face inexpressibly homely. The yellow man was wearing a house-robe of green silk, loose-flowing, girdled with a rope sash and ornamented with a pattern of dragons wrought in golden thread. Rich apparel for a man-servant! He was a bizarre apparition, our first encounter with Lola Carewe's singular household.

I wondered if Colt would not compare him with a pensive sea-elephant in repose. Standing with his yellow hands folded at his thighs, and his large head slightly swaying from side to side, the Oriental butler said, evenly and distinctly:

"A happy new year to you, madame, after the custom of the forty-eight states of this independent country."

"Thanks, Chung!"

Try Vegetable Sandwiches

Vegetables blended with meat or fish or eggs lighten up any kind of sandwich. Chopped raw vegetables—celery, lettuce, etc.—can be mixed with finely minced meat, blended together with a little mayonnaise, thus forming a smooth paste. (What's so disconcerting as the imperfectly prepared lettuce-and-something sandwich, with the lettuce drooping perilously at one end?)

If there are a number of sandwiches to be packed, then separate ones can be made of the substantial fillings like meat, eggs, fish, cheese or peanut butter—and an assortment of vegetable sandwiches. Celery chopped fine, chopped watercress, finely shredded lettuce, chopped radishes, chopped green peppers and chopped pimiento, grated raw carrot, mixed with a little soft butter and seasoning and lemon juice are a good spread for sandwiches. Or they can be mixed with mayonnaise, or softened cream cheese, or peanut butter plus lemon juice.

An invitation has been accepted by the team to put on the work in full form at Yellow Creek grange, May 19th. On Saturday evening, Midway grange will have their monthly grange party for members and friends.

Mrs. Brooks Hinerman entertained the Coterie at her home Monday evening.

Mrs. Morris E. Baker and daughter, Mrs. Hazel Gehrie were Columbian visitors, Thursday.

Mrs. C. C. Smith of Salem visited friends, Thursday.

S. J. Prior and family were guests of her father's home, Wm. Houston at North Lima.

Rev. J. D. McBride attended a Presbyterian meeting at East Palestine Wednesday.

A Peppy Sandwich

Tomatoes, cucumbers or pickles are sliced thin and spread with a little mayonnaise on bread which is equally thin, to make a peppy sandwich. Cress can be used in combination with any of the vegetables as it has a certain tart, horse radish flavor which pep's up a mild vegetable.

Incidentally, the cold cooked vegetables can also be used as the filling for sandwiches. Carrots, peppers, celery and many other of the root vegetables of plain-boiled, cut neatly into small cubes and mixed with salad dressing when cold, make a tasty filling for a brown-bread sandwich.

Open-faced Sandwiches

Mayonnaise, boiled or Russian dressing may be used—not of course, French dressing which is a bit too thin. If the vegetables are a bit flat they can be toned up by the addition of a spoonful of chopped pickle, picallilli or some other tart relish. Prepared mustard, in prudent quantities, may be used as a spread instead of mayonnaise, but use a light hand—too much will drown the vegetable flavor.

For those who like vegetables only when they are highly flavored, add a spoonful of grated horseradish or grated onion.

Hot, open-face sandwiches with a vegetable filling make an excellent lunch. Grilled tomatoes, grilled Spanish onions, fried eggplant, plain or with cheese or egg accompaniment, can be a complete meal. Lightly saute the sliced vegetable and when tender place on a round of bread toasted on one side. Place under a broiler, dot with butter, or a bit of soft cheese and brown.

PUSH CONGRESS RELIEF DRIVE

Legislators Hope to Complete Stabilization Program

WASHINGTON, May 14—Congress winds up this week in a spirited drive to complete a stabilizing confidence-breeding program of legislation in time for final adjournment before the political conventions.

The new spirit which has manifested itself during the week, under spurring words from President Hoover, showed in the senate's dominant bi-party coalition which today pushed along the rewritten billion dollar revenue bill, ready to fend off all attacks on its complex tax provisions.

In closed session, a group of Democrats worked on plans which should lead to an acceptable all-around plan of federal relief, modeled somewhat on the $1,500,000,000 compromise evolved by the President and Democratic leader Robinson. A senatorial economy committee pressed forward its re-writing of the slaughtered house economy bill, with the hope of saving more than $200,000,000 in the operation of the government machinery.

The house drove hard on the war department appropriation bill, last big money measure of the session, standing by its original economies so far despite opposition of the high army officials. It refused yesterday to strike out a clause that would cut 2,000 officers off the army rolls by retirement.

Martha Washington Plate Exhibited by Quota Club

The Salem Quota club has on exhibition at the Stamp Home Store Inc., a Martha Washington States plate, the design of which is copied from the original plate. The plates are being sold by the club.

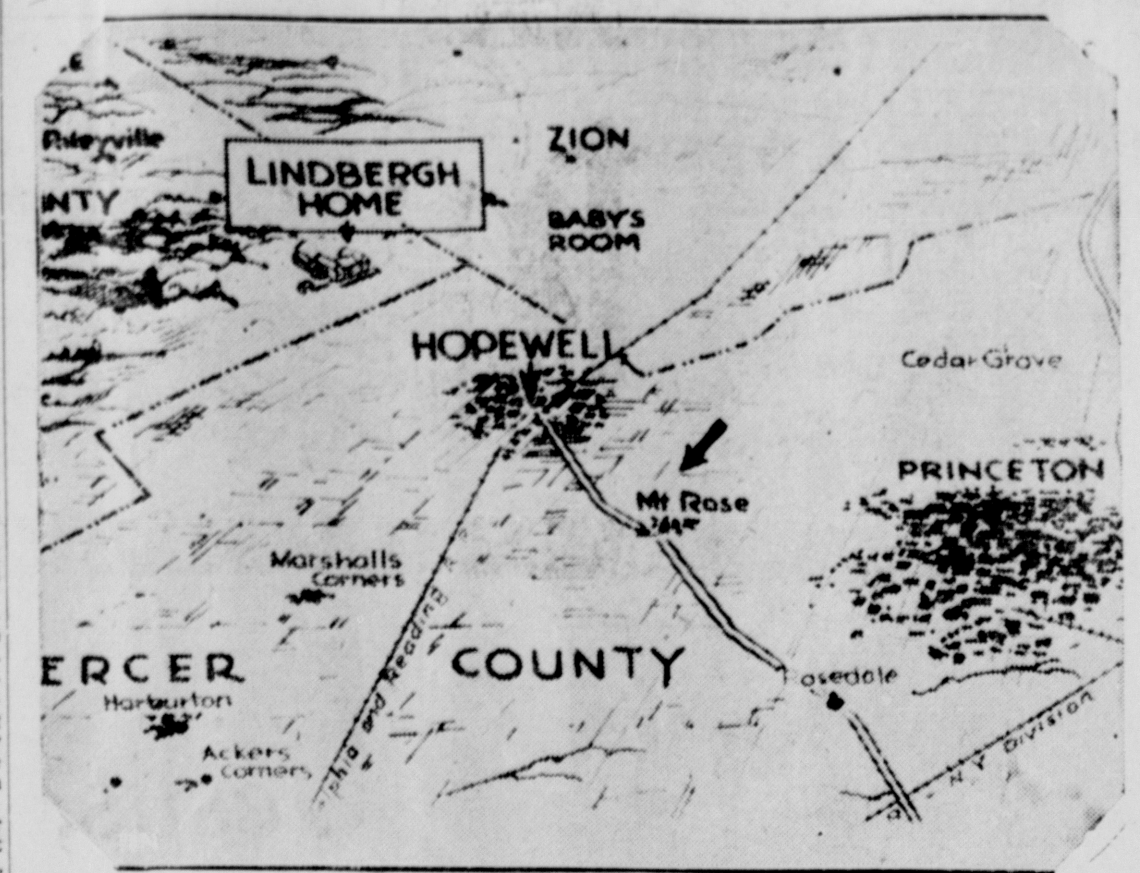

As a memorial tribute commemorating the birth of George Washington Quota Club International Inc., civic organization composed of business women executives, has had reproductions made of this famous plate, and a quaint Colonial teaspoon which was in daily use at Mt. Vernon. There are a limited number of these genuine reproductions. The name of each person receiving one will be entered on a permanent record.

Original In Institute

The original States plate is in the Smithsonian Institute in a loan collection of Mrs. Frances W. Dickens. It is one of a set which Martha Washington mentions in her will as "set of China given to me by Mr. Van Braam" and called by some authorities the Martha Washington States pattern.

In the center of the plate appears the interlaced monogram of Mar-

PANORAMA OF SCENE OF LINDBERGH TRAGEDY

This airplane view of the country-side surrounding the Lindbergh estate near Hopewell, N. J., shows the relative distance between the spot where Baby Lindbergh was found and the house from which he was kidnapped. While the search spread over the nation the body of the child lay on Mt. Rose hill, indicated by arrow on the right, just a few miles from the Lindbergh home, arrow left. The cluster of houses between the two arrows is the village of Hopewell.

life. In her prime, possessing unlimited money and opportunity for enjoying idleness, Mrs. Belmont began her fight "votes for women" and never ceased contributing energy, enthusiasm and money until the fight was won.

MEN CONTINUE their attack on distance, the law of gravitation and the Atlantic ocean. Lou P. Reichers of Arlington, N. J., landed in the sea off the coast of Ireland in his effort to cross the ocean, bound from Newark to Paris. He hoped to make the 3,500-mile trip in 17 hours.

Many do not realize it now, but this and other efforts mean that the regular, commonplace traveling time between New York and Paris will be less than 12 hours long before today's babies are grown men.

IF YOU GOT through yesterday successfully you have, according to the superstitious, not much to worry about for the rest of the year.

Yesterday was Friday the 13th, a combination that won't occur again during 1932. On such a day, all the queer things that have no existence, but have been much more real in the minds of millions than nine-tenths of all the realities, are supposed to come out and do their work.

ADOLPH S. COHS prints a list of them, "spooks, spirits, ghosts, banshees, hoodoos, voodooes, black magic, witchcraft, sorcery, wizardry, demonology, black art, necromancy, jinxes, evil spirits, phantoms, shades, specters," to say nothing of the wee folk in whom primitive Irish peasants used to believe.

More important than these things that have no reality is the fact that every month, and day, that we pass by so blithely, has written on it the word opportunity to which we pay no attention.

of nearly $3,000,000 will get underway here during the next 90 days. Among the improvements contemplated is the new $100,000 radio station of WWL, two buildings at the Marine hospital to cost $90,000, five buildings at the Shushan airport to cost $466,000, a $500,000 Knights of Columbus hotel, a $500,000 addition to Charity hospital and construction of the school of the Holy Name to cost $225,000.

LITCHFIELD — Two motherless rabbits are being cared for by Cinderella, the local fire barn cat, who adopted the bunnies along with one kitten of her own. The mother of the rabbits died several weeks ago and they were placed in with the kitten.

"Spend for the Home in 1932" Now Is the Time To Make Needed Repairs!

By having the small job done at present low costs you can avoid the big expenses that are sure to follow neglect. It's penny wise and pound foolish to let property depreciate and thus injure its loan or resale value.

The Church Invites You

Jesus, Lost from His Parents

Today, let us see Jesus, as a lad, twelve years of age. Meantime, we have passed the incident of His birth, and the days of His early childhood; the history of which is somewhat limited.

Whatever may be our thought, concerning the birth of Jesus, and His early boyhood days, there need be little variation of thought as to the fact that He did live during those intervening years between His birth, and the time when he appeared at the Feast of the Passover, with His parents at Jerusalem, according to the custom of the Jews at that time.

That Jesus should be brought to Jerusalem at such a time, was necessary. He had reached that age when He must assume certain obligations to keep God's law, as required by the Jewish people. Upon the other hand, it is interesting to note that it was upon that particular occasion, that Jesus gave notice that He was the Son of God.

That Jesus would have His people, at that time to know of His true relationship to the Heavenly Father, can be seen in His words to His mother, when she found Him after three long days of search.

Like any good mother—she implored Jesus to explain His absence, whereupon the Lad answered: "How is it that ye seek me. Knew ye not that I must be in my Father's house?"

The manner in which Jesus spoke, indicates that He first revealed to His own mother that even though He was her son in flesh, He was moreover the Son of God.

Services in Our Churches this Week

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

South Broadway. Rev. Sidney A. Mayer, minister. Some time spent at the beginning of the week in worship makes the whole week go better. Test it out for yourself.

Church school, Sunday morning at 9:45. Neil Grisez, Supt. Stanley Teachout director of orchestra and of junior choir. The junior choir made its debut last week and we are expecting great things from them in the future.

Morning worship at 11 a. m., sermon theme: "The Sacrament of Giving." The finance committee requests that members secure and sign their pledge cards for the fiscal year beginning June 1 and so lessen the work of the canvassers on the following Sunday.

Junior worship at 11 a. m. in the Junior room under the direction of Miss Eleanor McMurray.

The Methodist General Conference, which is meeting this month in Atlantic City, will broadcast a special program at 1:30 p. m. on Sunday over the Columbia system. One of the principal speakers in this radio broadcast will be Bishop McDowell who is retiring at this session of the general conference.

Epworth league at 6:30 p. m. This will be the annual anniversary and institute service. Leader, Esther Stewart. Election of officers.

A united Communion service will be held in this church on Sunday evening at 7:30 in observance of Pentecost.

Midweek service on Wednesday evening at 7:30. The subject for our study will be "Paul, The Man Who Made Good."

The Bethlehem class will meet on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. W. H. Matthews at 255 North Union ave.

There will be a courtesy supper for those who are to assist in this year's every member canvass, at the church on Friday night at 6:30. Information and instructions will be issued at this time.

Choir rehearsal Friday at 7:30 p. m., Lester Kille, director.

Pastors of the Christian, Presbyterian and Methodist churches of our city are planning for the third annual united communion service in celebration of Pentecost at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7:30.

The service will follow, as in previous years, the order prepared by the Ohio Council of Churches for the 1900th anniversary of Pentecost in 1930. Ministers of the cooperating churches will be in charge of the service and will be assisted by a group of deacons chosen from the respective churches.

This united communion service is planned with a view to giving added significance to Pentecost as the birthday of the Christian church and as a witness to the spirit of Christian fellowship and good will. The public is cordially invited.

FIRST BAPTIST

Lincoln and State. Rev. A. C. Westphal, pastor; Homer S. Taylor, organist; A. T. Hutson, director of music.

Bible school at 9:45. In the absence of the superintendent, the associate superintendents will preside.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Sermon subject, "Reading The Blue Print Wrong." Visual Evangel for the children, "Three Kinds of Church Members." Following the morning service, the deacons and trustees will meet jointly. Young People's services at 6:30 p. m.

Preaching services at 7:30, sermon subject, "Is It Nothing to You?"

Monday night at 7:45, the summer Bible school cabinet will be organized. The pastor is again calling for volunteers as teachers, as in former years. This will be the fourth summer Bible school in our church. It will begin Monday, June 6, and will continue for three weeks. Sessions will be held each morning from 9 to 11:30. All workers interested should be on hand Monday night for the first meeting.

Wednesday night, the mid-week prayer service will be held. Splendid interest and attendance has been manifested in this service. It's a long step between Sundays, so come and be helped across this wide gap.

The church people are invited to attend the baseball games at the park each Thursday night at 6 o'clock. This is the night designated for games for the church teams.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
608 East Second st.
Sunday school, 9:45. Harry Lambert, Supt.

Morning service 11, sermon by supply minister, Rev. C. L. Gardner of Cleveland.

N. Y. P. S., 6:30. Gladys Reed leader.

Evening service, 7:30, sermon by Rev. C. L. Gardner.

HOLY TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor. The Festival of Pentecost—Whit Sunday.

Sunday school 9:45 (I Corinthians 12:1-13). Paul Wilms, Supt. We are dependent upon the Holy Spirit of the Triune God for the many spiritual gifts. The Holy Spirit is the Third Person of the Holy Trinity. He it was that came with power and blessing when the disciples were waiting in the upper room, according to the suggestion of Jesus. It is the Holy Spirit that gives us the discerning knowledge that Jesus is the Christ. It is the Holy Spirit that has stirred up within us the desire for the good and righteous values of life. "I believe that I cannot by my own reason or strength believe in Jesus Christ my Lord, or come to Him, but the Holy Spirit has called me by the Gospel." All synergistic doctrines of salvation dwindle into nothingness, if the work of the Holy Spirit is truly understood. "I am, what I am by the work of the Holy Spirit."

Morning worship 11:00. Sermon, "Tongues of Fire."

The symbolism of the "tongues as of fire" that came upon the disciples heads when they received the Holy Spirit is very interesting. The enthusiasm for the propagation of the Kingdom of Christ had been of much consequence before this time. The apostles were not actively engaged in pushing the cause of the Master. This attitude was changed after the tongues of fire came upon them. They did not stop until they reached the corners of the then known world. The lives of the apostles were not so completely in accord with the demands of Jesus, when he was with them. Now they were changed men. Righteousness and zeal for God and His Kingdom were the consuming ideals of their lives. These men through the resting of the tongues of fire upon them, became flaming evangelists for the saving of mankind from sin and Satan.

Luther League 6:30. The regular Sunday evening devotional meeting will be held.

This Sunday is Whit Sunday or Pentecost. This term means fifty. It was a feast of the Jews fifty days after the Passover, on which day the Holy Spirit was outpoured upon the early Church. The name Whit Sunday is supposed to come from the custom in the early church of dressing in white for baptism and in the later Church dressing in white for baptism and confirmation.

Light Brigade meets Saturday at 2:30 at the church.

Preaching services at the Washingtonville Lutheran church, Sunday evening at 7:30.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

217 North Lincoln ave. Morning service at 11 o'clock. Subject: "Mortals and Immortals." Golden text: Romans 8:16. "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God."

Sunday school for pupils up to the age of 20 years at 9:45 a. m.

Wednesday evening testimony meeting at 8 o'clock.

All are cordially invited to attend these services.

"MORTALS AND IMMORTALS" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 15.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. . . . For if a man think himself to be something, when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself. . . . But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another" (Galatians 6:2-4).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Science of being unveils the errors of sense, and spiritual perception, aided by Science, reaches Truth. Then error disappears. Sin and sickness will abate and seem less real as we approach the scientific period, in which mortal sense is subdued and all that is unlike the true likeness disappears" (p. 409).

ST. JOHN'S A. M. E.
East High st. Sunday school 10 a. m. Preaching service 11 a. m. At 3 p. m. Rev. Howard Moore of Hartford, Conn., our former pastor, will address us. A cordial welcome to all. A. J. Johnson, pastor.

CHRISTIAN

North Ellsworth ave. and East Second st. C. F. Evans, minister; J. William Filson, director of music; Mrs. Ruth Berry, organist.

Next Sunday is the anniversary of the day of Pentecost. It commemorates the true birthday of the church in a baptism of spiritual power. We might well be thrilled with the portrayal of that great event. Those early Christians faced a stupendous task for which they needed a stupendous power. They went to the upper room conscious of their helplessness. They came away conscious of their strength. To meet the moral and spiritual problems of our day we also need more power. We are confident that God will provide it for us if we are willing to use it. Next Sunday we should register our desire for power by meeting together in our upper room.

9:30 a. m., Church school. Harry M. Vincent, Supt.

10:30 a. m., Church worship. Sermon by minister, subject, "Fruit in the Garden of Life—Honorableness." This is the seventh in a series of sermons dealing with Christian virtues.

7:30 p. m., our church will join with the Presbyterian and Methodist churches in a union communion service in commemoration of Pentecost. This service will be held in the Methodist church.

Wednesday, 3:30 p. m., meeting of the Junior band, for children 8 to 12.

Wednesday, 7:30 p. m., mid-week service.

Friday, 7:30 p. m., choir practice.

FIRST FRIENDS

C. F. Bailey, pastor. Pershing st. between South Broadway and South Ellsworth.

Bible school 9:45. Raymond Ingram superintendent, Walter Regal leader of the orchestra.

Morning worship 11:00. Homer L. Ellyson choir director, Miss Beattie Park pianist. Mrs. Charles A. Matti, missionary on furlough from Nanking, China, will preach at this service. Mrs. Matti was previously Elsie Lambright of Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. Matti are expecting to return to China this fall.

It would seem that every American, out of sympathy and respect, should find a place of worship tomorrow and implore Almighty God in behalf of the grief stricken Lindbergh home, in their deepest sorrow.

We have rejoiced with them in their worthy attainments, may we now bow with them in their sorrow.

There will be a quarterly meeting rally of a missionary nature at the Beloit Friends church 2:30 p. m. Miss Esther Baird our senior missionary in India will give the address.

Gospel service 7:30. Sermon subject—"The Church's Greatest Liability."

Saturday evening prayer meeting 7:30. Raymond Rohrer, leader.

Wednesday evening prayer meeting 7:30.

PRESBYTERIAN

East Second st. and North Lundy ave. Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor. Miss Grace Orr director of music. Miss Anna Cook organist.

Church school, 9:45. George W. Bunn, supt; morning worship, 10:55. Sermon theme, "A Year in the Ministry," Junior sermon, "Flowers," Christian Endeavor, 6:30.

Topic, "How May We Work For World Good Will?" leaders, Harold Hutcheson and William Kendall.

There will be no midweek service. By vote of the session it has been discontinued until September.

Tuesday evening the Anne B. Gilbert auxiliary will have a potluck dinner. Mrs. Irshay of the Campbell Christian Neighborhood house will be the guest speaker.

Sheep as Airport Helpers

This strange combination of airplane and sheep is not as incongruous as it appears at first. It is not a thoughtless pilot landing his plane in the midst of a flock of woolies. It is merely the manner in which the authorities at the Berlin, Germany, airport keep the grass on the landing field close cropped. The sheep enjoy their job much more than a man would enjoy chasing a lawn mower over the extensive acreage.

The Sky Was Their Church

"Happy is the bride the sun shines on," say the prophets and this couple ought to be very happy if there is any truth in the old saw. They are Paul du Pont, Chicago couturier, and his bride, the former Rachel Williams Strawbridge, Philadelphia heiress, pictured at Du Pont's home at Pensacola, Fla., after their recent outdoor marriage. A fashionable crowd attended the ceremony under the brilliant Florida sun. The Rev. Hendree Harrison, rector of Christ Episcopal Church officiated.

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

Airplanes disguised as radio studios are getting rather common- place nowadays, so broadcasters feel that to do something different they will have to send up an orchestra.

That's just what has been planned for the dance hour next Thursday night via WEAF-NBC. In an 18-passenger plane as it flies about New York will be Marion Handy and his 12-piece orchestra tooting away for listeners.

When WHAS Louisville, Ky., drops off the NBC chain to join CBS after tonight, there will be no NBC replacement there for the present.

Try These Tonight

WEAF-NBC — 6:30 — Parade of song by Elizabeth Lennox; 7:30 — Radio in education; 8:30 — Saturday night club; 10 — Russ Columbo.

WABC-CBS — 7:00 — Laboratory experiment, transmission on a beam of light; 8:00 — Vaughn De Leath; 9:15 — Address by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri; 11:00 — Noble Sissle orchestra.

WJZ-NBC — 6:15 — Sam Robbins' orchestra; 8 — Joseph Koestner ensemble; 9:15 — Snoo and Peep; 10:30 — Old Timers' Jollification, new series from WRVA, Richmond, Va.

Sunday Is To Bring

WEAF-NBC — 9:00 a. m. — Inter H. S. German Glee club, also to Germany; 3:30 p. m. — International

Roaming 'Romanoff' at Sea But He Has Nowhere to Go

Pants-Presser "Prince," Deported by Uncle Sam, Is Headed for More Grief in La Belle France. His Lurid Career Recalled.

"PRINCE MICHAEL ROMANOFF"

Deported by the United States and on his way to France in the brig of the liner De Grasse, "Prince Michael Romanoff," known to his parents at Hillsboro, Ill., as Harry Ferguson, former de-wrinkler of maltreated pants, may find himself bobbing about the seven seas indefinitely, for France may also refuse him admittance. However, if "Prince Mike" is allowed to enter France, he will do so as a prisoner and will probably be awarded a year or so in prison for his little escapade of stowing away on the life de France, in which he made his unsuccessful attempt to enter the U. S. The deportation of the Romanoff-who isn't followed his recapitulation after he had escaped from Ellis Island by acting as host to his guard on a tour of New York speakies. He escaped from the immigration authorities once before by swimming to the New Jersey shore. On that occasion, in 1923, he was aided by information about tides and currents which had been supplied him on request by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey Department at Washington. "Prince Mike" has been in the court spotlight of America and Europe on many occasions, but his most notable appearance was when he was named as correspondent in the divorce action of Edward B. Gould of New York against his wife. Mrs. Gould charged that Romanoff drugged her and framed the evidence given at the hearing of the suit.

THEATER Attractions

Joan Blondell is featured in "The Famous Ferguson Case," the attraction Thursday at the State theater.

Charles Ruggles and Roland Young entangled in an endless chain of humorous incidents resulting from their efforts at modernized living and living, are the leading players in the laugh vehicle, "This Is the Night," coming to the State theater Sunday and Monday.

Lily Damita, Cary Grant and Thelma Todd are supporting players in the picture, the first showing Young and Ruggles, two of the screen's most popular comedians, in leading roles. It is taken from the popular play written by Avery Hopwood.

Mix at the Grand
Tom Mix in his first talkie, Grand today and Sunday, "The Miracle Man" is the State's attraction today.

Based on Upton Sinclair's sensational novel, the new drama based on America and its Eighteenth amendment, "The Wet Parade," appears at the State Tuesday and Wednesday.

Starring in the picture are Walter Huston, James (Schnozzle) Durante, Wallace Ford, Myrna Loy, Neil Hamilton, John Miljan, Joan Marsh, Robert Young, Lewis Stone and Emma Dunn, one of the finest and outstanding casts assembled in one drama in some time.

"The Wet Parade" traces the history of the prohibition by depicting life in a southern home before the World war then suddenly brings out a sharp contrast between the pre-war era and modern life under the Volstead rule.

Newspaper Drama Coming
Joan Blondell, Adrienne Dore, Leslie Fenton and Walter Miller are the stars in "Famous Ferguson Case," a newspaper drama attempting to depict genuine newspaper life and manner and characteristics of newspapermen, plays at the State Thursday.

Jackie Cooper and Charles (Chic) Sale, two powerful box office attractions with moviegoers of all ages, are shown in "When A Feller Needs A Friend," coming to the State Friday and Saturday. Ralph Graves, Dorothy Peterson and Oscar Apfel also appear in the last.

Hoot Gibson in "Spirit of the West" plays at the Grand next Saturday and Sunday. Another chapter of Rint Tin Tin in "The Lightning Warrior" is also booked.

POLICE PROBE MONEY MYSTERY

Was It Collected by Actual Murderers or By Racketeers?

he received a note demanding $70,000, and bearing the cryptic signature. Then began the strange series of negotiations in "Jafse" advertisements and through night meetings in cemeteries.

The shadowy individuals with whom he treated produced a sleeping suit similar to that worn by the Lindbergh baby. Col. Lindbergh said it was the same kind of suit. But many of the same kind were sold by a New York specialties shop, and Prosecutor Erwin A. Marshall of Mercer county, declared:

"Whether it was the same garment or not I don't know and I can't say and I don't think the Lindbergh family can say."

The third link in the chain of doubt consisted of two safety pins. According to a copyrighted story in the Bronx Home News which carried the original Jafse advertisements, the pins were carried by Dr. Condon when he went to Woodlawn cemetery March 12 to keep a night rendezvous.

Produces Pins

As he picked his way among the graves, a man came out of the darkness. There was a conference, and Dr. Condon produced the safety pins, given him by Colonel Lindbergh.

"Do you know where these came from?" he asked.

"Sure I do," responded the other, "They were used to pin the blanket to the crib."

The possibility that this was just a good guess by the criminal was not overlooked.

Other theories and possibilities were also entertained. One of the latter was put forward by Marshall. He said there was just a chance a resident of the Sourlands country took the baby, killed him and then by pre-arrangement turned over the sleeping garment to gangsters for a sum.

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14. — A baby's ashes in a simple urn rested today in a crematory chapel, the solemn symbol of human helplessness when madmen roam free.

These were the ashes of the Lindbergh baby; the body of a murdered child reduced to a tiny pile of dust by cremation.

In the lonesome Sourlands Hill home Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh lay ill. For more than two months her fortitude has been remarkable. Last night a physician ordered her to bed.

The baby's father was near exhaustion. He had been long without sleep, save the tortured slumber of a parent who had lived 72 days on the brink of an emotional chasm.

Yesterday had been his black Friday. His baby's hair and namesake—had been taken in a simple casket to Rosehill cemetery, Linden.

Watch Tiny Form Cremated

Three colonels—Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the state police of New Jersey, Col. Henry Breckenridge, counsel, friend and adviser of Col. Lindbergh, and Colonel Lindbergh himself, Lone Eagle and king of the skyways, a slim worn bundle of nerves watched all that remained of the tiny form, cremated.

Silently they watched as the casket containing the wasted form of the child was lowered to cremation. For a moment they gazed through the place provided for official witnesses.

They did not wait to take the ashes of the murdered child with them. A few hours earlier Colonel Lindbergh had tasted the very dregs of bitterness when he looked upon the body and added his verification of previous identification. It was as horrible an experience as could come to any parent.

This must have been Charles Lindbergh's moment of anguish. As he entered the room where the body lay just as it had been found late the afternoon before, buried hastily under leaves and brush not five miles from the Lindbergh home. The Colonel was asked: "Col. Lindbergh, do you positively identify this baby?"

The aviator stood tense. Only the head—the head which had been struck a terrible blow that caused death—was to be seen. A sheet covered the rest.

Covering Removed

As though steeling himself, Lindbergh said:

"Take that off."

The covering was removed. He stood thus, and the room was empty, save for him.

Half an hour, and the ordeal was over. The body was taken to Linden for cremation. Police authorities remonstrated mildly. They felt that further examination might provide some clues to the killer. Col. Lindbergh, however, was insistent that cremation be not delayed. His wishes were respected.

The illness of Mrs. Lindbergh followed the recital to her—at her own insistence—of details concerning the condition of the body of her baby when found. These details had been kept from her. Two months of exposure to spring rains under its scant covering of leaves had been cruel to the little body. It was not a pleasant story to tell.

The telling, physicians said, was too much for her to stand in her condition.

The action of the physician in ordering Mrs. Lindbergh to bed was said not to imply that her condition was in any sense serious. It was, rather, of a precautionary measure. Neither Mrs. Lindbergh nor her husband has had much rest in the days of the search for the child.

Questioning of Dr. John F. Condon (Jafse) the Bronx negotiator, and of John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk, Va., intermediary, satisfied state police that the negotiations of both men in an effort to effect the baby's return were undertaken in good faith.

For the first time the circumstances under which their separate negotiations were conducted were made known. Each felt that he actually had established contact with the kidnappers or their bona fide representatives. Colonel Lindbergh himself was convinced; for he had given Dr. Condon $50,000 which was paid to the kidnappers and he had made out a check for a similar sum to Curtis, to be paid if the baby were returned.

With the tragic revelation that the men with whom they dealt could not deliver back the stolen baby "alive and well" as they promised, the negotiators have spread their information before the authorities in the hope at least of bringing to justice the men who sought thus to traffic on the emotions of parents.

Curtis, accompanied by two detectives, was off today on another mysterious journey, this time in quest of the man with whom he had been negotiating. Where they went was not revealed. It was only a few days ago that the "kidnappers" informed Curtis that they were ready to put the baby "in Col. Lindbergh's arms" on payment of ransom money; and they urged haste, declaring that the baby was pretty bad off from seasickness.

Federal Agents Aid

Federal agents were lending their support to the hunt for the murderer, giving quick evidence of President Hoover's earnestness when he announced yesterday that the government would assist in the hunt "until these criminals are implacably brought to justice."

A theory of accidental death entered the case and was being studied, although it had no general credence. It was that the kidnaper, attempting to descend from the second floor nursery by ladder, may have lost his grip on the baby, dropping the child to the stones below.

The spot where the body was found Thursday afternoon by the Negro truckman, William Allen, was barred off from curious eyes last night by walls of cement blocks. Investigators have searched the burial locale several times, thoroughly, but the wall was built to preserve the spot for future examination as developments may make necessary.

No announcement was made early today as to what funeral arrangements are contemplated. An undertaker was instructed to call today at the crematory and take custody of the urn awaiting orders from the home of sorrow in the Sourland hills—hills now green with growing things and echoing with the song of birds.

Saved Life "Obeying Orders"

Rescued after dangling from a rope 1,700 feet above the earth for an hour and a half, Robert Cowart, 19-year-old Navy seaman, is shown with Lieut. Commander C. E. Rosendahl of the dirigible Akron at San Diego, Calif., after the Akron had been safely landed. Two of Cowart's companions were killed when they fell from a height of 200 feet as the giant dirigible rose after breaking her mooring cable. The three members of the improvised landing crew hung on to the ropes and were carried aloft. Cowart was hauled aboard the Akron after an hour and a half's struggle. "I had orders to hang on, so I did," was the rescued sailor's comment when he again reached terra firma.
